leagues. He set out to prove two propositions—that the County Committee is supreme in Henrico, and that the evidence in the Brauer case was sufficient to convict the defendant of fraud. Mr. Ruffin showed that the Democratic party had some few years ago promulgated a primary system, under which, among other things, contests were to be decided subject to right of appeal to the State Committee. Then he showed that under the statutes of Virginia the county of Henrico had the right, if it saw fit, to adopt its own primary system, which should be the law in the county. In the recent primary it had seen fit to exercise this right, and had adonted its own plan. It therefore acted independently of the State Committee, and was not subject to its resulations, as it would have been if it had adopted the State Committee's plan. He said that in all things the County Committee had been loyal to the State Committee, but that when this latter body arrogated an authority that it did not possess, the County Committee in the Brauer-Hechler case, and declared that Brauer was suffly out of his own mouth. The defendant had confessed to paying the man Green the sum of $22. The counsel for Brauer had tried to influence the County Committee, by begging that it refrain from airing the fits enemy, the Republicans. But the day for cheating was over, and the County Committee, as he add influence the State Committee, by begging that it refrain from airing the fits enemy, the Republicans. But the day for cheating was over, and the County Committee, as honerable genilemen, were trying to make it so that there would be no airty linen to air.

The newspapers received a considerable nortion of Mr. Ruffin's attention, and he scored them severely for crying guilty and then as he said, assisting the State Committee to hish things up. When the speaker concluded he was presented with a heautiful bouquet of flowers, "on behalf of the lades of Fairfield and lower Henrico." It was given "as an emblem of purity, fairness and honesty."

lower Henrico." It was given "as an emblem of purity, fairness and honesty."

What Mr. Todd Said.

Mr. Todd denominated as a "dirty persecution" the work of the newspapers of Richmond in behalf of the State Committee. Of this latter body he also had a few words to say. He said he went to st expecting to see a party of honest gentlemen in the performance of their duty. He went merely to protest against any action by them, and did not at any time agree to submit to their decision. But he saw a little room near the State Committee room, and he saw Bill Sands dragging the members of the State Committee room, and he saw a good acal of whiskey in that room. He saw the State Committee walking around arm in arm with Bill Sands and drinking his whiskey. Finally Bill came out and called for "Pete" Barksdale, who also got into the room; likewise "Joe" Button.

"Why, Bill just pressed the Button," said Mr. Todd, "and Pete did the rest. It was the most disgraceful scene I had ever witnessed. Even if I had agreed to the decision of the State Committee and went there expecting to meet honest men, I would have refused to submit after I found that I was gold-bricked and sand-bagged."

In closing Mr. Todd said he had been all bagged."

In closing Mr. Todd said he had been all over the county, and that his friends and the friends of Mr. Hechier were sticking by him like a man. He expected to achieve a great victory.

ing by him like a man. He expected to achieve a great victory.

Coaiter and Hechler.

Like the others, Mr. Coalter jumped with both feet on the newspapers, declaring that they were unfair and so forth. He said that they were covering up the State Committee whether it was right or wrong. He discussed the academic question involved, and said that the Demorats had been cheating since 1859, and that it was now time to stop. He charged that the counsel for Brauer had tried to intimidate and prowbeat the County Committee. They had even gone so far as to take revenge on a prominent State officer, and threaten that if he did not force a certain committeeman to vote in a certain manner he would lose his job.

Mr. Hechler spoke briefly, and said Todd would whn no matter how much Clyde Saunders and Bill Sands might fume and fuss and kick and cuss. He predicted a glorious wictory.

The Brauer Meeting.

The Brauer Meeting.

A considerably larger crowd was present at the Broauer meeting, which was rather short. Mr. Russell spoke first, declaring that personally he was a Todd man, that that personal he was a room and, has he had up to very recently, supported Todd, but that he was in duty bound to submit to the supreme party power. He took several hard cracks at the County Committee and declared that it was a cut and dried thing that Brauer should be turned out.

along the same line. He stood for party organization, and for the supremacy of organization, and for the surremacy of the State Committee. He charged parti-sanship by the County Committee, which, he said, was trying to dictate to the county. He urged that all good Democrats rally to the call of the party and sup-port the party nominee-William II. Brauer.

To-night at Terry's Hall, in Shumaker's precinct, a big Brauer meeting will be held. Captain George D. Wise will be

SHOT CLOSELY FOR THE PRIZE

Dr. Hillsman Won. Very Hotly Pressed by Mr. Anderson.

Yesterday was an ideal day for outdoor sports, not too warm, but at times a bad, gusty wind, which made the targets skip and duck, so that the principals were kept guessing and the scorer busy chalking up ciphers. This worried some of the contestants, but Hillsman and Anderson had the problem solved, as each won fresh laurels by breaking twenty-five straight, thereby establishing a record for the Albemarle Gun Club,

The contest was for the final possession of the Harris, Flippen & Co. medal and the championship of Richmond at Sixteen entered and shot the race through.

In the first string of twenty-five Anderson was picked as an easy winner, as ne was shooting in good time, literally pulverling his targets, and accounted for all twenty-five, He was liberally applauded.

In the next string Anderson weakened some, dropping his first ninth, fifteenth and twenty-first birds, all from No. 1 trap, overshooting them, and accounting for forty-six.

In this squad was Dr. Hillsman, who had won the medal in a former contest. He was shooting in great form, and realized, with Anderson's lead of three in the first string, he must duplicate Andrealized.

Two coincidents occurred, which are especially interesting to the contestants. The medal was won first on a score of forty-seven out of fifty; at each time the longest run was thirty-two.

Mr. Albert Boschen, one of the enthusiastle members of the club, in a few well chosen words, presented the handsome tropy to Dr. Hillsman. # FINE FOOT-BALL GAME

The University to Meet V. P. I. To-Morrow.

THE PROPOSED LINE-UP

The Game Expected to Be One of the Warmest Struggles Ever Witnessed on the Gridiron in this

Those who desire to witness a scientific, brilliantly played and closely contested foot-ball game between teams of the first rank among southern colleges will have opportunity to see just such a stirring struggle at Broad Street Park Saturday afternoon, beginning promptly at 3:15 o'clock. The game, it should be noted, is scheduled for 3:15' o'clock, and will begin on the minute, for there is no time to spare if the game is to be finished before darkness begins to fall

The time of the halves has not been announced, but they will probably be twenty-five of thirty minutes with an intermission of ten minutes. This will af-ford ample time for a decisive struggle. EQUALIZE THE TEAMS.

The action of the Virginia Intercol-legiate Athletic Association in debarring leginte Athletic Association in debarring Left Tackle and Captain Johnson, of the University team, and Right Half Back Carpenter, of the V. P. I., will somewhat weaken both teams, but the losses will about equalize each other. On the whole the indications are that two more evenly matched teams have never met on the gridiron in this State. On the record of comes played this year the Blacksburg gridiron in this State, On the record of games played this year the Blacksburg boys are quite as strong, both in offense and defense, as the famous University of Virginia, eleven, with a string of victories and but one defeat to its credit. The V. P. I. boys are yet, unbeaten, and Virginia's only defeat that by the Naval Academy team by the bare margin of one point was an accident. And yet, of one point, was an accident. And yet, Naval Academy team by the bare margin of one point, was an accident. And yet, just such an accident, a fumble or a missed goal or a goal from the field is likely to decide the issue of Saturday's game. In weight the two elevens are very nearly equal, and also in experience. Many of Blacksburg's finest players are men who have played with the team for several seasons, and they are not only in excellent condition, but have the benefit of having long played together.

HAS LOST GOOD MEN.

Virginia has lost several of her best men of last year's team, among them its old captain and two of its best backs. It has some good men in their places, but whether they are as good as the old remains to be seen. The colors of the V. P. I. team are maroon and orange, and of the University the familiar orange and blue. The big orange V on the blue sweaters of the Varsity men always has its effect in frightening its opponents, and may be the decisive factor in the game.

Mr. Ninde Asks Support for His Opponent for Treasurer.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

COMORN, VA., Oct. 22.—There is no longer any good reason for believing or fearing that the success of the King George Democracy at the November election will be menaced by party factions. Mr. J. C. Ninde, a recognized leader in Shiloh District, has circulated a printed eard appealing to all of his friends in that district to vote for Mr. J. T. Minor, Jr., the Democrate primary nominee, for the office of treasurer. Mr. Nindes faction was defeated at the primary on the 19th instant, and it was rumored that he and his followers would not support Mr. Minor, Mr. Ninde's card is addressed: "To the Democrats of Shiloh District." In the says, "while I, in common with many of you, feel disappointed at the result in other parts of the county, I am willing to accept it, and appeal to all of my freinds to vote for Mr. J. T. Minor, Jr., who is the Democratic nominee for treasurer of our county. It is very important that we preserve our Democratic organization. I value the support I got from such a source more highly than I would an office."

This action of Mr. Ninde is very significant; removes all grounds upon which to base a fear or prediction of a factional fight in the Democrate party, and practically insures the election of the Democratic candidates.

It is said to-day that Mr. James H. Boggs, who was defeated at the primary for the office of commissioner of the revenue, has successful opponent. Mr. Poggs is being generally commended for this action, and it is the concensus of opinion that such a course will add largely to his strength in the county.

Charles F. that of impersonating a secret service officer of the United States and obtaining money from several persons in this city by such misrepresentation.

Malatesta, who is an Italian by birth, was formerly employed in this city as a barber, but, according to the story told by the officers here, he was reported to them as having represented himself to be an officer of the Federal government, and thereby victimized several merchants and others. It is said that his scheme was to come in and present himself as a secret service officer on the lookout for counterfelt money. After examining notes and coins he usually found the currency good, thanked the merchant and left. Then he would call again, renew his acquaintance, and finally state that he was expecting a remittance from the department, and ask a small loan as an accommodation meanwhile. This scheme was worked successfully several times, it is alleged.

Then, it is charged, he represented himself next as a Chinese immigration inspector, and called on local Celestials to examine their papers. It is claimed that he extorted money in small sums from the washee artists. As soon as the local officials were made aware of these operations Malatesta disappeared. He was located in Boston, Mass., but before Federal officers could lay hands on him there he had again disappeared. The

Their Friends Expect Them to Win by Two Touchdowns.

Two Touchdowns.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.. Oct. 22.—
Head Coach Gresham Poe, with the assistance of his brother, Johnson Poe, put the Virginia foot-ball eleven through a stiff practice this afternoon, the last line-up before the game with the Virginia Polytechnic Institute Saturday. After a fast signal practice and some individual coaching, the Varsity and scrub teams lined up.

In the first half two touchdowns were scored by the Varsity in rapid succession, and only once did the scrubs-gain a first down. In the second half, however, the serub eleven scored on a fluke, Dodson getting the ball on a fumble and going forty yards for a touchdown.

The work of the Varsity was very satisfactory, the improvement in team work Foing evidenced by the manner in which the line men hauled and dragged the runner after he had been tackled, On one occasion one of the backs was pulled a distance of twenty yards across the goal line, with opposing players langing to him.

The supporters of the orange and blue expect their team to win by two touchdowns, and figure that the cudets will be unable to score, except on a fluke.

STONEWALL

BRIGADE

Annual Meeting of the Survivers at Staunton. Virginia.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

STAUNTON, VA., Oct. 22.-The survivors of the Stonewall Jackson Brigade held their annual State meeting here to-day in the hall of Stonewall Jackson Camp Confederate Veterans and organized an association of the survivors of the Stonewall Brigade. The meeting which was quite largely attended, was

T. Ponge, of Lexington, pressurer, and M. Smiley, of Augusta county, a voteran of the Fifth Virginia Regiment, Infandral and Thomas D. Ponge, of Lexington, president; Thos. try, vice-president; and Thomas D, Woodward, one present secretary, as try, vice-president; and Thomas of Woodswald, here giresent secretary, as secretary.

Several veterans of the brigade were called upon, who made brief responses.

A number of Confederate veterans from other organizations were present who also made brief responses to the call.

In addition to the other offices the office of chaplain was created and the Rev. Blaine, of Lexington, a veteran of the brigade, was elected chaplain.

Jefferson Shields, (colored), seventy-seven years old, the cook and body servant of Stonewall Jackson, was present. He is the negro about whom those belonging to the Stonewall Brigade tell the story that Shields could always tell when a battle was coming off. He used to watch his master and when General Jackson prayed a long prayer in the morning. Shields would notify the soldiers that a battle would take place that day.
